TOWARDS A NEW ERA FOR THE LEGAL PROFESSION

The legal profession is undergoing changes that are not easy to evaluate at the moment. Innovation is disrupting and overturning old ways of organizing and working, but also presenting new challenges and opportunities. Unprecedented technological change seems to be shaping the future of legal services. The geopolitics post COVID-19 are having an impact on the global environment where companies operate. The pandemic has accelerated digitalization and a transition to a more sustainable way of living and doing. Lawyers are called upon to not only adapt to a changing environment, but to lead positive change on a grand scale.

5 days / 5 topics in which we will take a trip hand in hand with great experts on what awaits us in this new era.

We would like you to join us at our GA_P International Virtual week from the 24th to 28th of May. Firms, friends and clients from around the globe will participate in this event and discuss the future of our profession.

Digital Transformation: What It Means, Why It Matters, And What It Portends For The Legal Function

Digital transformation has been a C-Suite priority for years, but it remains a vague, if not misunderstood term for most in the legal industry. Covid-19 has turbocharged the pace of digital acceleration, rendering the digital journey a corporate existential imperative. Digitally mature companies have expanded the gap distancing them from digital neophytes across a spectrum of performance and profit metrics.

The legal industry has been a digital laggard. That's about to change because business—law's customers—is reconfiguring the role and remit of the legal function. This will have profoundly impact throughout the legal ecosystem, for consumers of legal services, and the broader society. This presentation will explain how, why, and some ways to prepare for the change.
